DEATH OF UNCLE PERRY LACY.

Another Ancient Landmark Removed From Wolfe County.

WILLIAM PERRY LACY, the subject of our sketch, usually called and known by the name of Uncle Perry Lacy, belonged to one of the ancient families and early settlers of Wolfe county (formerly Morgan), where his grandfather, John Morgan, settled in an early day on a creek emptying into Red river near the town of Hazel Green, which bears the name of Lacy Creek, being named in honor of the grandfather of the Lacy family, where many of the Lacy's and the Lacy family and their descendants have resided ever since; and they are related to the leading families of this county, to wit: The Trimble's, Kashes and many others.

John Lacy was an Old Baptist in faith and a good, quiet, honest citizen, and his son Marcus Lacy, who was the father of Uncle Perry Lacy, settled in his young days lower down on the same creek and raised his family there, and continued to reside there all his days.

He was also a quiet, unassuming, honest citizen. He died some years past at his home on Lacy creek, at the advanced age of 81 years, and the grandfather John Lacy, lived to be nearly as old as Marcus.

Uncle Perry Lacy was born in the year 1821, and was therefore 73 years old at the time of his death, which occurred at his home near the town of Campton, on Saturday morning, August 4, 1894.

He had been a stout, healthy, industrious man until some five years past, when his general health began to decline gradually and continued to do so until he passed away, yet most of the time he was able to go about and do his work. Some five days before his death he was taken with a chill and a hurting about his left kidney, which made him very restless and confined him to his bed the greater part of the time till Friday morning, August 3d, when his wife assisted him out of his bed. When he got out of some and attempted to stand on the floor his left leg gave way and he sank down, after being put back into his bed. It was then discovered for the first time that leg from the hip joint down had turned very purple and soon became considerably swollen and cold, and from then continued to remain so for the next 24 hours, at which time he passed away. When his leg gave way and he sank down death had laid hold of him and he gradually sank to rise no more. He occasionally conversed and was in his perfect mind until late in the night before he died, when he ceased to talk afterwards. His pulse became quicker and his breathing shorter until on Saturday morning he quietly passed away to the land of rest, without even a struggle, a gasp, or a frown. So quietly that it was hard to discover when life was extinct. On the evening before he died he was asked in regard to his future state, and he answered that all was well with him; that he had always endeavored to do his duty; to do right and to treat others right, and that he could not see anything in his way; that he was ready to meet death without any fears or doubts. His religion was the Golden Rule to "do unto others as you would that they should do unto you," and further, to be patient and honest in every respect, all of which he endeavored strictly to do. If Uncle Perry left any enemies behind him we have not learned who they are. He lived, especially in his latter days, like a well-nigh perfect man, and died like a prince. He willingly resigned himself into the hands of the Mighty Power who created, preserved and protected him, believing that he would continue that protection beyond the River of Life and through the vast and unlimited duration of eternity.

Uncle Perry was too kind and generous ever to be a man of much wealth, but by his energy and industry he always had a competency of the necessities of life, besides a reasonable surplus, which he always cheerfully and willingly divided with his numerous friends.

Uncle Perry will be much missed where he lived, not only by the adult people but by the children, who ever found in him a father and kind friend. And his peculiar voice, which was daily heard in the town where he lived in calling his stock and sheep to their salt and feed, will be missed and long remembered by the people around his former home. He had six brothers and one sister, all of whom are dead except three, to wit: Sanford, James and A. Porter Lacy. The first named now resides in the State of Texas, the second in the town of Hazel Green, and the third is the owner of the old ancestral homestead, where on last Sunday the remains of the deceased were taken by friends and quietly laid to rest in his family and ancestral burying ground, where the tall branching oaks and other forest trees are now standing with their numerous boughs weeping over his grave. He had been three times married and was the father of many children, who are like himself upright and honest, following in the main the worthy examples of their father. His last wife, Aunt Julia Ann Lacy, with her two children by that marriage, Emma and Jennie, with his other children by his former marriages, are all left to mourn his loss and to say farewell to Uncle Perry until we shall meet again.

When Uncle Perry came to the bank of the Dark River to receive his final trial and judgment before crossing it, no accuser or witnesses appeared there against him, and on discovering this he gently wrapped the drapery of his couch around him and laid himself down to pleasant dreams.

SHARP BLASTS.

Notes of Help and Advice Sounded from the "Raccoon's Horn."

Virtue is always paying dividends.

A long face is not a passport to heaven.

Covetousness is the mother of all other sins.

The way to love God more is trust him more.

Beware of the devil when he is well dressed.

God never gave anybody the right to be disagreeable.

Backsliding seldom happens in time of trial or adversity.

If you have God's promise for a thing, isn't that enough?

The greatest enemy any man can have is sin in his own soul.

When sin hides it forgets that it can not cover up its tracks.

It takes a touch of darkness sometimes to tell us how near God is.

Dogs Destroying Corn.

"Dob" Higgins, one of the colored farmers of this community, reports that dogs have destroyed a large amount of his growing corn. At first he thought hogs were in the corn, but an investigation proved that the damage was being done by dogs. They tear down the corn stalks and then eat the young corn like hogs. Since this occurrence was brought to our notice we have heard of several cases like it, and old farmers tell us that in dry seasons dogs frequently make raids on growing corn, going in packs like wolves.

HORSE AND TRACK.

What the Flyers are Doing This Year.

—Train your horse for the Fair.

—Record-breakers are developing in the trotting world every day.

—Over 10 gallons of water were pumped from a mare suffering from dropsy.

—Robert J. is as likely to beat 2:04 as any trotter or pacer living this year.

—Robert J. paced the middle half of one of his miles at Cleveland in 1:00.

—Lord Clinton, 2:09, and Azote, 2:09, will meet in the 2:10 race at Terre Haute.

—C. C. Hanks has a bay gelding on the Hazel Green track that is developing as a stepper.

—Boreal, the phenomenal 2 year old that won the Terre Haute stakes, is now valued at $75,000.

—"Soup" Perkins won four succeeding mounts at the Hawthorn race track, Chicago, on Monday.

—The great trotting meeting is in progress at Buffalo, and the time made in the races is sensational.

—Agate won the 2:15 class purse of $2,000 at Detroit. Time, 2:09; 2:12; 2:12; from a field of 18 starters.

—Directly is now the champion two-year-old pacer, he winning the $1,000 purse at Buffalo in 2:12 and 2:14.

—Dollie Wilkes, Jann W. White's fast mare, won the 2:17 class of $400 at Mayville last week. Time 2:17.

—Flying Jib, 2:04, seems worthless as a race horse. The Jib sometimes wins a heat in 2:07 and gets the flag in the next.

—When Azote, 2:09, meets Ryland T., 2:07; Lord Clinton, 2:09, and the other big guns it will be a battle royal.

—Lord Clinton goes in an open blade and side check. He wears few boots, and is the raciest looking gelding on the turf.

—Directum, 2:05, the racing king of 1893, is moving well, having shown a mile in 2:09. He will start later in some big races.

—The contest for the free for all trot at Terre Haute are Alis, 2:07; Pixley, 2:08; Belle Vava, 2:08; and Ryland T., 2:07. Directum is not entered.

—There will be a race at the Fair Grounds Saturday week between the Wells pacing stud and the roan trotter of Riley Stacy's. A fast race is expected as both can go some.

—Mr. W. C. France has purchased of Mr. E. D. Wiggins, of Massachusetts, the fast trotting mare, Martha Wilkes, 2:08, by Aleyone, dam Elia, by Clark Chick 89; second dam Mollie.

—The Wells pacing horse which took the second money at Hazel Green last year, is again in training at the Fair Grounds, and improving his speed every day. Look out for him.

—W. W. Evans has brought his stable of trotters from Highland Farm to the Lexington track. They are Futurity, three years old, by Hinder Wilkes; Frances Strong, three years old.

—Boreal, the 2 year old colt belonging to Scott Newman, of Louisville, won the $10,000 purse at Terre Haute, Ind., on Monday, trotting one heat in 2:17 and breaking the record of his class.

—Robert J. seems to have the free for all pacing races at his mercy, although he had to beat his record to win at Cleveland. Saladin gave him a great race, forcing him to pace the third heat in 2:04.

—Ryland T., the fast, but unreliable gelding, won the fastest 3 heat race ever trotted, winning the 2:11 class at Cleveland. Time, 2:08; 2:07; 2:08. Lord Clinton was well backed to win but only got third money.

—Dancourt won the 4 year old stake of $20,000 at Detroit, beating such noted ones as Silicon, 2:15; Margrave, 2:15, and others. Time, 2:16; 2:15; 2:15; 2:17, and 2:17, he winning the first, fourth and fifth heats.

THE HERMIT KINGDOM.

Ex-Minister Hubbard on Corea and the War in the East.

Ex-Gov. Hubbard, of Texas, United States Minister to Japan under Cleveland's first administration, and temporary Chairman of the Democratic National convention of 1884, was called upon by a Globe-Democrat correspondent and asked for his views on the Japan-China war. The Governor said:

"The war had its origin as far back as the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. Japan and Corea had more than once bloody wars and invasions of the latter country, and then Japan and China, and China and Corea, all of which resulted, without burdening your readers with details, in the claim of 'suzerainty,' so termed, over Corea by both China and Japan, each claiming as a price of conquest the exercise of this 'armed protectorate.' Corea, a weak and dependent people, abjectly acknowledged this protectorate as a vassal alike to Peking and Kyoto and Tokio, paying annual tributes of rice or money as the consideration of this protectorate, and yet, strange contradiction as it appears, neither Japan nor China conceded, until 1876-80, under the treaty of Tien-Tsin, that the protectorate was mutual. Under that treaty, concluded between Japan and China, succeeding the Formosan troubles of the two empires, they compromised this old contention as to Corea by mutually conceding the right, on giving due notice to the other, to send and maintain a given number of troops in Corea for the purpose of protecting the lives and property and commerce of their respective residents, subjects within the treaty ports of Corea; that the said military contingents should be used solely for the purposes named, and not to be increased save on due notice to each other. The treaty acknowledges the hereditary monarchy of Corea and that it is a treaty power, both said nations having recently concluded independent treaties with Corea. Meanwhile Japan, wonderfully progressive, soon outstripped her great and rival neighbor China (between whom there never was any love lost for centuries past) in securing the primacy of the commerce of Corea and the inland seas, and while Corea favored China and disliked Japan she yielded to fate, and early became the debtor nation to Japan in her trade relations.

CHINA SIDED WITH COREA.
"Then insurrections arose and rebellions in Corea and China, which depreciated on Japanese commerce and resulted in the murder, not only of many of the leaders of their own court, but of Japanese subjects and merchants as well. China, be it said to her infinite credit, advised Corea to pay an indemnity of many millions to Japan, and thus avoid war, and consequently invasions. This friendly act by China welded, so to speak, the entente cordiale between Corea and China, and brought about really a better feeling between the two great empires in this controversy for the time. China, however, grew jealous, naturally, of Japan's commercial power over Corea, and stuckle over the treaty provisions of Tien-Tsin time and again. Meantime, Kim O Kim, once a member of the Co-rean Cabinet, became involved in a conspiracy to overthrow the Government of Corea and to murder the King, so runs the current unofficial history of that time, and these events are recited in the legations of treaty powers whilst I was in Tokio, from 1885 to 1889. He fled to Japan and received asylum from that power.

"Demands for Kim O Kim by Corea were refused, another source of bad feeling in Corea. China sympathized with the 'Hermit Kingdom.' This ill-feeling became intensified when at Shanghai afterwards Kim O Kim was assassinated by Co-rean and Chinese procurment, so the press and people of Japan boldly charged and believed. Then recently a formidable insurance against the King and his dynasty, of which the public is aware. Naturally lawless and barbarous, out of this insurrection Japanese commerce was depredated upon and destroyed and some of their subjects murdered within their treaty concessions. Japan resented this and sent additional troops without giving notice, so it is charged, to China as well as to Corea, and resisted these lawless Co-rean rebels. After skirmishes with Co-rean soldiers they surrounded the palace and made virtually the King a prisoner of war. Against these acts China vigorously, with threats, protested as violation of the Tien-Tsin treaty, and she, too, without giving due notice, sent by land and by sea some thousands of troops to Corea. Japanese cruisers intercepted the Chinese ships and transports with troops on board and ordered them not to proceed to Corea with armed troops, etc., so the cables report. Your readers are as familiar with these recent happenings as I am. Japan fired on the transports, one of which was flying the British flag and some thousands were killed, etc. War exists. These are the brief head lines of the causes and events leading to it, as I read them in the past."

A PROLONGED STRUGGLE.
"What do you think will be the result of this war?"
"I think and fear it will be a great oriental war, and may involve Western nations, particularly Russia, whose vast possessions of Siberia stretch right up to the boundary of Corea. Her 'Monroe doctrine' is to let no power own Corea by conquest or purchase outside of Russia, and she will assert this claim as only Russia can do in the far East. The Japanese soldiers are incomparably superior to the Chinese, and the Japanese sailors are still more in advance of the Chinese. I think that within a year's time Japan will sweep the Chinese navy from the seas and destroy the vast inland Asiatic commerce. China can throw a million of troops into Corea by land, and thus have the military advantage of Japan, who must send her troops by sea over a thousand miles to Co-rean ports and then fight for a landing. But discipline and training for forty years under French, German, British and American military and naval officers and teachers has made the Japanese soldiers and army and navy so greatly superior to the Chinese, that with 40,000,000 to draw from, even against 300,000,000 in China, she will be successful. There will be no conquests, however, of course, attempted on either side. That needs no argument. The map of Asia will answer that proposition, nor will either absorb Corea. Russia stands guard over that wistful prize, and from Vladivostek by sea and Siberia by land, her Cossack legions will be hurled upon the 'Hermit Kingdom' and become not the protector nor the suzerain only, but the owner of Corea, by conquest if need be.

"The United States is logical arbitrator of this eastern dispute. Friendly to all these nations, and ready in the past, and now, to extend its recognitions of independence to them all, which Europe refuses to do, as illustrated all along through the administrations of Grant, and Garfield, and Arthur, and Cleveland, and Harrison—for it is an American, not a partisan policy—our country, we repeat, should be the very first to proffer to settle by peaceable arbitration what promises to be a great and bloody war in the far east."—Globe Democrat Correspondent.

Put Out in Just Ten Seconds.
Our citizens to the number of two or three hundred gathered on the burnt district here, on last Monday afternoon at two o'clock, to witness the exhibition made by the Cincinnati Tin and Japan Fire Extinguisher Co. The test was given under the personal supervision of Mr. Herman B. Wells, president of the company, of Cincinnati, and Mr. W. V. Snyder, the local agent, of Georgetown, Ohio, and was satisfactory in every respect, clearly demonstrating the Stemple Extinguisher to be one of the best methods yet devised or invented for the controlling of fire.

A structure of pine boards was built, and after being thoroughly saturated with coal-oil, a match was applied. The extinguisher was then turned on and the fire put out in about ten seconds. All who witnessed the test were thoroughly satisfied that the Stemple will do all and more than is claimed for it. The headquarters of the company are S. E. Cor. The state of trade is looking up. According to the commercial reports of Bradstreet and Dun, respectively, there was a marked difference in last week's business over the corresponding week of last year.

Hundreds of miners are said to be entombed in the burning coal mines near Domrowdy, in the State of Gradnow. The fire started by an explosion while the full force of miners was at work, and very few escaped.

We this week place at the head of our columns the Democratic County ticket, and ask a consideration of their claims by all the voters of Wolfe county. They are all good men, and every one should command the full vote of the county.

The Brockinridge barbecue held in Bourbon county on Saturday last is said to have been the largest ever seen in Kentucky. Conservative estimates placed the number of people in attendance at between 8,000 and 9,000, and they were of the best in the county. The barbecue was prepared under the supervision of old hands at the business, and the way the crowd enjoyed it was a compliment to the managers. Five Shorthorn heaves, forty South-down sheep, 400 chickens and 138 baskets of the best things the farmers' wives could prepare constituted the feast.

The message started from Washington on Monday, August 6, was delivered to Gov. Waite at Denver, Colorado, on Sunday at 10:27 1/2 p. m. The distance traveled, 2,087 miles, was made without serious accident or interruption, and the feat will long remain a monument to the skill and endurance of the American bicyclist. The time consumed in carrying the message the distance was six days, ten hours and thirty-seven minutes, a gain of thirty-seven hours and twenty-three minutes over schedule time, breaking eleven records.

Judge Caswell Bennett, Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals, died at Hopkinsville on Thursday morning last. The remains were taken to Frankfort Friday, and the burial took place there on Saturday at 11 o'clock a. m. The Governor will probably appoint his successor this week, if he has not already done so.

At our topmast we this week hoist the names of Hon. Joe M. Kendall and Hon. W. M. Beckner for Congress, the latter for the short term. Democrats will make no mistake in voting for either of these men, and we bespeak for them now the full party vote in November.

A fine rain fell in Iowa on Friday evening, extending across the State from the South, but it is feared that it is too late to save the corn crop, which had been retarded in growth by the drouth extending from May 1st with the exception of a few slight showers.

The maximum temperature on Friday last was 99 degrees, which, according to official reports was the hottest day in that city since July 20, 1887. Strange as it may seem there was not a case of prostration from heat or sunstroke reported.

A citizen of Bath county tells the Sharpsburg World that for every fog we have in August there will be a snow fall next winter. He claims to have made close observation for many years, and never knew it to fail.

Dr. John D. Clardy, of Christian county, will be the next Democratic Congressman from the Second Kentucky District unless all signs fail.

He Sets a Church in Order.

EDITOR HERALD: The officers and brethren of the "Church of Christ" at Ezel having requested me to come to that place some days ago and reorganize the church, I visited them last Saturday, preaching the same evening and Lord's day. The congregation having no church book or record, the one used so long being the private property of an individual. The church reorganized with 48 members, embracing the names of as pure God-fearing, Jesus loving Christian brothers and sisters as ever advocated, taught and pleaded for "Let us all be one in Christ Jesus." There are many more to be added "in love" who earnestly plead for the form and spirit of the "Doctrine once delivered to the saints," and the old, old plea of "the Bible alone for their guide." The Church of Christ at Ezel has for its motto Luke, 2:14. Fraternally,

The Patrons of Husbandry.

DEAR HERALD: An old Kentuckian asks you indulgence again. Saturday night closed the 14th annual convention and picnic of the Patrons of Husbandry, which was the most prosperous ever held. The last day was attended by thousands of people from Coles and adjoining counties. Mrs. T. E. Frazier, a former citizen of your town was chairman of the lady managers and a good part of its success was due to her untiring efforts. Mr. James H. Swango, of Hazel Green, was on programme and delivered a fine oration to an audience of over 6000. After he had finished many old settlers from different parts of your state rushed to the platform to shake hands with the young orator, while the grove fairly rang with his praise. The other speakers were Hon. Geo. R. Tate, of East St. Louis, and Supt. S. T. Fagan, of Charleston. Kentuckians in this county are doing well. Good prospects for large crops.

AN OLD KENTUCKIAN.

Fair Ground, Ill., Aug. 6.

MORGAN COUNTY.

Elder Herries.

It is an uncommon "dry" time for this vicinity, consequently news is scarce.

Our school at this place opened on Monday the 6th inst., with Miss Nannie Fields as teacher. Boyd Richardson and Spencer Fannin, of Ezel, were in this neighborhood last week trying fishermen's luck.

Hamilton Testerman and Millard Carter, of Grassy, were visiting friends and catching a few of the funny tribe during the past week.

J. T. Gevedon, the enterprising agent for the John Church Co., last week delivered to W. W. Carpenter a fine organ and accordion. We will now realize that "music hath charms to soothe the savage."

The mussel industry is now on the wane, although there has been some very valuable pearls found—one being sold for $42. If any of my Hazel Green friends want a collection of mussel shells, come down, you can get them from that of a quarter up to that of a sailor hat.

Maytown Misses.

Mr. Jordan Willis was no better Monday.

The Hazel Green Fair is beginning to boom all along the line.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. May and little son, Carl, left last Friday for a week's visit to Lee City and Salsversville.

Mrs. Bettie Brown, of Louisville, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arch Day and other relatives, left for her home on the 14th.

Neff and E. W. Meeks, who have the Maytown mill rented, say they ground last week five days, and ground 468 bushels of wheat besides corn, the amount of which they did not give us, and why murmur longer.

Fine rain Saturday and Sunday night and Monday. Everything looked refreshed and prosperous; and the cry of no corn next year, we hope, will now stop. Plenty of wheat in this county, and plenty of work to do if we would do it, and we would have less time to complain of hard times, the drouth, etc.

From Our Ezel Correspondent.

Our Ezel correspondent sends the following: I attended Elder J. A. Howard's meeting at Hazel Green last Sunday, and I heard many old men say that they never saw such a meeting before. It seems to me that those who are opposing him should get ashamed and quit. Rev. J. H. Scott, a colored preacher, preached here last Sunday and Monday nights. He said it required three things to run religion; viz: "Orit, Grace, and Greenback."

When in Lexington call on L. & G. STRAUS, Leading Clothiers, who carry a larger line of CLOTHING and sell for less money than any house in the bluegrass capital. A Watch free with every purchase of $5, or over.

THE HERALD

For Staff.

We are authorized to announce SAM HENRY WILSON as a candidate for sheriff of Wolfe county, subject only to the will of the people at the polls in November, 1894.

THIS PAPER is all home print, and if you want all the good things it contains you should read every article on each of the eight pages. You will find all the local news that way.

J. T. Day is threshing a fine crop of oats this week.

A few good bacon hams wanted at this office, for which we will pay 10 cents per pound.

What has become of our Canton correspondent? We have not had a letter from that place for a few, many weeks.

It is important to keep the liver and kidneys in good condition. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the remedy for invigorating these organs.

Newton Nickell died of fever last Saturday at the residence of his father, Joe Desha Nickell, on Caney. He was about 21 years of age.

Morgan Spencer, who was shot by Jim Edwards some time ago, is getting along nicely and is able to sit up for a short time every day or so.

Rose & Swango have a bunch of thirty-one cattle for the Mt. Sterling market that are about the best that has been seen here for a long time.

The number and quality of the horses in training at the Fair Grounds indicates that the Fair will this year afford a great deal of rich racing sport.

Our Sellers correspondent says a mad dog was killed in that neighborhood a few days since. His correspondence was received too late for the paper this week.

You can relieve that headache you have by buying a box of Megrimine at THE HERALD office. It will only cost 50 cents and is sold on a positive guarantee.

Hon. W. O. Mize has beautified every piece of his property in town by handsomely painting it, and his example should be followed by all who have pride in their local town.

J. Richmond DeBusk left Sunday evening for Long Branch, at which place he has engaged to teach school. That he will do his whole duty is a question that no one who knows him will doubt.

Mrs. Bertie Godsey arrived here Tuesday evening from Danville, where she has been at the bedside of a sick aunt since leaving Washington some time ago. Mr. Godsey will be here about September 1st.

James Killgore, of Menefee county has a washboard that is attracting the attention of all who have washing to do, and he will have it here at the fair. All who have used it recommend it as the best made.

Breck Amxy, who was in Morgan county on Tuesday, learned that Miss Jennie Robinson died on Monday night from a congestive chill. She will be remembered as a student of the academy a year or so ago.

Breck Amxy requests us to say that the statement contained in our Maytown letter last week, that James Amxy is at Rush Springs, Indian Territory, is erroneous. He gets a letter from that place every week, and his brother is not there.

The Directors of the Hazel Green Fair Association are requested to meet in this place on Saturday, August 25, at 1 o'clock p. m. A full attendance is requested as business of importance will come before the board. H. F. PIERATT, President.

The ministers and deacons of the Laurel Spring Association of Missionary Baptists will meet with Providence church, Wolfe county, commencing on Friday before the third Saturday in September. The purpose is to organize a ministers' and deacons' union, and a full representation is requested.

Mrs. Frazee and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Watson, who were at Swango Springs for a week or more, left Friday for their homes at Mayville. John T. Drennan and wife, of the same place, arrived at the Springs Saturday, and Mr. Drennan tells us that he will probably remain here until the first of September.

Dear Editor of HERALD, Will you please publish a card of thanks to the kind and generous hearted people for their administering to my needs. I could not express the gratitude of my heart. I am still improving, but am very sore. I give you these lines in an awkward way, but with many thanks to my friends and good wishes for the HERALD. JOSEPH F. ROSE.

The State S. S. Convention at Russellville. On the 28th, 29th and 30th of this month, the Annual Convention of the Kentucky Sunday School Union will be held at Russellville. A most attractive program has been arranged and a very large attendance is expected. Pastors, superintendents, secretaries, teachers and scholars will find something especially helpful to them. Special attention will be given to Primary Work, and every Primary teacher in the State is invited to attend. Miss Mabel Hall, of Chicago, will make several addresses upon this department; Miss Hall has a Graded Primary Class of 450 children in the Sunday School of which Mr. B. F. Jacobs is superintendent.

Among the speakers are Mr. Wm. Reynolds, International Field Worker; Rev. S. L. Lindsay, of St. Louis; Revs. Carter Helm Jones, H. K. Fenner, J. R. Collier, J. W. Turner and T. T. Eaton, of Louisville; Revs. H. C. Settle and J. W. Mitchell, of Hopkinsville; Revs. J. W. Stagg and Wm. R. Wright, of Bowling Green; Rev. Jno. R. Deering of Versailles; and many others prominent in Sunday School work.

Delegates will be entertained, and all who expect to attend are requested to send their names to Mr. M. P. Sloss, at Russellville, as soon as possible.

The railroads have made a rate of one fare for the round trip upon presentation of certificate. These certificates may be secured from the County Officers, or from Miss Manie E. Huber, Secretary at Louisville.

Sunday School workers of every denomination are cordially invited to attend.

The singing at the Howard meeting on the Fair Grounds last Sunday was complimented by so many that we asked Mr. Fugate, the leader of the choir, to furnish us the names, and we herewith produce them:

MESSRS.	MISSES.
S. M. Fugate,	Louie Hensley,
J. H. Hensley,	Mattie Yocum,
Harlan Murphy,	Maggie Yocum,
W. B. Yocum,	Louie Little,
James Yocum,	Eva Henry,
Miles Yocum,	Mary B. Oldfield,
S. J. Hensley,	Susan Murphy,
Brue Oldfield,	Emma Dehask,
S. S. Oldfield,	Ide Oldfield,
H. F. Oldfield,	Martha Fugate,
J. F. Murphy,	Emma Carr,
L. G. Murphy,	Fanny Hensley,
James Little,	Amy Hensley,

Several of the best lady, and gentlemen singers in our town also lent their assistance in rendering good music, but we have been unable to get their names.

Frank Patrick's wife and child were killed by lightning at their home on Caney last Saturday evening. They were the only ones at home at the time, and when found were supposed to have been dead about three hours. The parties who made the discovery ran out to notify the neighborhood and when they returned the bed in the room was afire. The lightning struck the chimney of the house and thus entered the room where Mrs. Patrick and her child were sitting. Mr. Patrick has the sympathy of all in his affliction.

Prof. W. H. Cord, of Hazel Green Academy, advertises in this issue. Prof. Cord is well-known here, having married one of Owen-ton's fairest daughters, and also taught the Owen-ton High School several terms. As an educator he is eminently fitted. He is an upright christian gentleman in every respect. His school at Hazel Green is one of the best in the state and is growing rapidly.—Owen-ton News.

Miss Lizzie Cox, of Mt. Sterling, is visiting Miss Mattie Quicksall and other friends at this place, and will remain until after the fair. She is a grand daughter of Dr. B. F. Cox, of Mt. Sterling, and when the editor and his better lived in that city she was a wee little thing, and we called her "our baby." She is just as dear to us now, and we hope to have her with us for a while during her visit.

A West Liberty correspondent gives us the following official majority of the candidates as a correction of the report published last week: O. J. McKenzie for Judge, 80; Davis, Clark, 78; Rose, Attorney, 219. Rose got at West Liberty 68 and Steele 190, making Steele's majority in home precinct 222. Sheriff, Phillips 178; Jailor, Peyton 248; Assessor, Fugate 53; Surveyor, Barker 51; Coroner, Nickell 111.

A first class 25 horse power portable saw mill complete, and, if needed, a good corn mill, all in complete order. Price and terms reasonable. For particulars address Maytown Mill Co., Maytown, Ky.

Elder Howard is now preaching at Sandfield, and begins a meeting at Stillwater Saturday afternoon.

ELDER HOWARD'S MEETING.

He Preaches at the Fair Grounds to an Audience Estimated at From 800 to 1,500 People.

The meeting conducted by Elder Howard at this place during all last week closed on Sunday afternoon at the M. E. Church. He preached at the Fair Grounds in the morning to the largest crowd that ever attended a religious gathering at this place, the crowd being variously estimated at 800 to 1,500 people. Never any where, have we seen better order than during the morning service at the Fair Grounds, which was the largest similar assemblage ever seen here except, perhaps, when Evangelist Barnes preached here several years ago. Nor was the conduct at the church any the less commendable, only the crowd was not so large. Mr. Howard, however, had to ask the gentlemen to vacate the seats in the church to accommodate the ladies, and this left a goodly sized congregation in the church yard. Elder Howard preached for about one hour and twenty minutes in the morning, and perhaps not so long in the afternoon. After service in the evening seven were baptized. These with five others baptized earlier in the meeting constituted those received by baptism, though some seventy announced for Christian unity, according to his statement to us. Elder Howard is one of the most earnest talkers we ever heard, and seems perfectly sincere in all he says.

As many of the converts were, or had been, church members, the preacher announced to them that they could remain in their respective churches, with the understanding that they should work for Christian Unity. His plea to throw down denominational lines and worship together, or according to the Bible, was listened to with marked attention and respect. But when he pointed out the danger of damnation through denominational dogmas, many of those who were born, and have been raised under the devout teachings of mothers and fathers long since deceased, differed with him. Indeed, so far as we could see from an unbiased view he made no immediate impressions upon any of the members of the three churches here, though we have made no special inquiry.

Looking from this unbiased standpoint we think all his arguments were fair on their face and sincerely spoken. And in this opinion we are strengthened by that expressed by members of all the churches—persons who are themselves unbiased. Mr. Howard is not a pulpit orator in a strict sense of speaking, but his magnetism, earnestness or something, certainly attracts crowds to hear him, and if the people composing them take his advice they can not do otherwise than be better people.

Burning Pain

Erysipelas in Face and Eyes

Inflammation Subdued and Tortures Ended by Hood's.

"I am so glad to be relieved of my tortures that I am willing to tell the benefits I have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla. In April and May, I was afflicted with erysipelas in my face and eyes, which spread to my throat and neck. I tried diverse treatments and alternatives, but there was no permanent abatement of the burning, torturing pain, peculiar to this complaint. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and before I had finished the first bottle. I continued to improve until, when I had taken four bottles, I was completely cured, and felt that all skin, nerve and system troubles that drive one's life to despair, could be forever 'vanquished.' Mrs. E. E. OTTAWA, Hiram, W. Va.

The President Sends A Letter to President Dole, of Hawaii.

A letter of congratulation and greeting from President Cleveland, in the name of the United States, is on the way from Washington to President Dole, of the Hawaiian Republic. The recognition of the new republic was finally decided upon last week, and the message was framed and mailed on Wednesday, the 8th, through the regular channels.

Although the customary secrecy which attends diplomatic matters has surrounded the relations of the United States with the Hawaiian Republic since that country assumed its new form of government, it is learned on the best authority that there has never been any doubt of President Cleveland's course in the matter, and of his recognition of the new government of Hawaii as a de facto government.

A few days ago a letter was received from President Dole conveying the formal announcement of the proclamation of the republic and the formation of the new government. This letter was laid before the Cabinet, and has been under consideration while the House Committee on Foreign Affairs was debating whether it should report a resolution for recognition.

With the letter of greeting to President Dole, which, of course, passes through the hands of Minister Willis ratifying his action in provisionally extending the usual recognition to the republic.

Mr. Frank P. Hastings, who, in the absence of Minister Thurston, is Charge d'Affairs at the Hawaiian Legation here, has had an interview with Secretary Gresham, and was told that he had been formally recognized as the representative of the new government. Chairman McCreary, of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, says it is not customary to give publicity to diplomatic correspondence until it has reached its destination. Consequently the letter to President Dole will not be made public until sufficient time has passed for its reception, when a copy will be forwarded to Congress with a copy of the message received from him. This is the usual course of diplomatic procedure, but the fact that the existence of the correspondence has become known may induce the President to make it public.

There is a parallel between Brazil and Hawaii on these latest developments. Soon after Brazil had changed to a republican form of government a resolution was introduced in the House by Mr. McCreary, now Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, for recognition, the Democrats thinking that President Harrison had delayed action unreasonably. Before the Committee could take action on the resolution, however, Congress was notified that the President had recognized the new government.

Kenneth Bezmore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When troubled with dysentery, diarrhoea, colic or cholera morbus, give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by John M. Rose.

Death of Miss Cravens.

Miss Emma Cravens, aged 18 years, died of consumption at the home of her father, William Cravens, in this county, Wednesday. Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at Somerset church, conducted by Elder L. H. Reynolds, burial in Macphelah cemetery. Deceased was a young lady who lived a Christian life and will reap her reward in heaven. To her relatives and friends whose heads are bowed in grief over her untimely death, we extend our deep sympathy.—Sentinel-Democrat.

My boy was taken with a disease resembling bloody flux. The first thing I thought of was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Two doses of it settled the matter and cured him sound and well. I heartily recommend this remedy to all persons suffering from a like complaint. I will answer any inquiries regarding it when stamp is enclosed. I refer to any county officials as to my reliability. WM. ROACH, J. P. Primory, Campbell Co., Tenn. For sale by John M. Rose.

Both Baptists.

News comes to us that the Hon. N. T. Hopkins, Republican candidate for Congress against the Hon. Jo M. Kendall, is both preaching and electioneering in Knott county. Jo Kendall is not a preacher of the gospel, but he is preaching nevertheless—preaching the true principles of pure and undefiled Democracy, and if all reports be true he is meeting with great success, and making many converts. Jo Kendall has no fears of being defeated, but he is making an active canvass, and between now and November will see nearly every Democrat in the district and urge them to go to the polls on November 6, because he has a pride to receive the largest majority that any Democratic nominee ever received in the district, and it would not surprise us to see him do it.

Some of the Republicans seem to think that Bro. Hopkins, because he is a Baptist preacher, will get a good many Baptist Democrats, but if this is what they are depending on for the election of their nominee, they will be woefully disappointed, as Jo Kendall is a Baptist himself, and as he said in his speech of acceptance at Campion, "Brother Hopkins may be a better man than I am, but I know he is no better Baptist."—Sentinel Democrat.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Teachers' Institute in Magoffin. The Magoffin county Teachers' Institute was in session at Hendricks, Magoffin county last week. The institute was conducted by D. W. Gardner. Over 100 teachers were enrolled as members, the largest number by far of any ever held in the county before. This was the closing work of H. G. Arnett, County Superintendent, whose term of office expires this week. H. W. Atkeson, the newly-elected Superintendent, will then be inducted into office.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Edward Slumpick, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minnesota. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years, and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaint." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by John M. Telephone Line to Salyersville. Stock to the amount of $600 was last week subscribed in order to build a Telephone line from Salyersville to Paintsville and connect with the Richardson and Paintsville line. The stockholders of the Richardson line are the promoters of this one, and it only took a few minutes to get up the amount necessary. Work will commence immediately.

September 1st, Last Day. This date may not be the last day of all time, but it is positively the latest date that you can rent an Electropoise for two months for five dollars. All orders received on or before this time will receive prompt attention; all new instruments. Don't delay until the last day before making up your mind; take advantage of it right now. One of our patrons thus aptly expresses himself: "The Electropoise has cured me of neuralgia, indigestion and a complication of other ailments which had so completely wrecked my nervous system that my life was a burden. I had been sick for twenty years. I realize that the Electropoise is a propelling force in nature's store house for suffering humanity. It is nature's remedy, whose healing effect is so silent, so sure and yet so mysterious that it is justly termed the wonder of the age." Fifty page book free, giving full particulars. PEARCE AMERSON'S WILEY BY RICHARD MALCOLM JOHNSTON. COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY B. BALPINCOTT COMPANY.

Seaborn Torrance habitually attended the superior court, which, in the dozen and more counties of which the state was composed, held spring and fall terms. No lawyer in middle Georgia was regarded as more able than he, particularly in the conduct of cases involving complicated issues. Besides very high admiration for him, Dabney had some affection, having grown more than once from him timely suggestions when trying cases. The inferior court, limited to the county, also held two sessions in the year. This court had civil jurisdiction, except as to land, co-ordinate with the former, and sat as a court of ordinary besides. It was composed of five justices elected by the people. Often suits of great importance were instituted therein, because, as the judiciary allowed to parties two trials, those dissatisfied with the rulings of officials without learning in the law could appeal to the higher tribunal. Therefore, lawyers from other counties seldom attended. It was on business outside that Torrance came to the town on the Saturday before the court at which Haman's application expected to be considered. Dabney, grown more anxious, called upon him one night at Huseon's. He found him in good case, having settled his business satisfactorily and gotten a good supper. When Dabney had made his statement he said:

"Yes, yes. You see how things come around. Arthur, Wiley Amerson came out of near two thousand dollars a client of mine in Hancock, there on Island creek, high the Baldwin line. It was too late when the poor fellow came to me to do him any good, but I sent word to Wiley, and I know he got it, that I meant if I lived to try to pay him back. And your client is Billy Dabney's daughter in the Queen's district. He was a poor man, but an honest. They said she was a beauty. By the way, didn't I hear she used to be an old sweetheart of yours? Eh, Dabney? However, he went on, as seeming to notice the seriousness on Dabney's face, 'let's to the business. Now as to the fee, I'll leave that to you, only that I'll take no retainer, but trust to the contingent. Would that be satisfactory to the widow?'"

"Why, of course, Mr. Torrance, more than satisfactory. She'd hardly think she ought not to insist."

"No, no. You see I want, if I can, to get even with Amerson, and then, my good lad, I want to help you for it's a case that if we can put it through we give a good show to the reputation you've already got."

"Why, my dear Mr. Torrance, I don't know how to thank—"

"Don't do it, Dabney, at least in words. Let's talk now about what you've done and then what's to be done. Cussing ain't much of a habit with me, though I sometimes do blaze out, as I felt once or twice like doing when you were stating the case just now to me. But it's almost Sunday, and my wife would feel in yet more scolding mood, she knows that I've been cussing Wile Amerson. So let that go for the present. As for the application for administration, my counsel is to let that rest awhile. When the time comes, I'll better apply for letters in full, leaving out de bonis non. That, you see, Watson will construe as an admission of the will's validity. See, Dabney?"

"I do now," Dabney answered, smiling.

"No harm done; no harm done. You let the case go by Monday. I don't believe I'd go in the courthouse at all. That will put them to thinking that we feel content to bide our time to strike for higher things. People will talk about the infernal case, and you must keep your ears open. There isn't a shadow of doubt in my mind that there's fraud somewhere, but I don't know where it's hid. What's the use of being lawyers if such a fellow as Wile Amerson can keep blinding the eyes of both of us with his filthy dust? He's as sly as he's rascally, but he can't rub out every single one of his tracks. His courting the widow so soon, coarse dog that he is, shows that it was more than one bird he was after, and that he's anxious. You work up the case, and let me hear from time to time of your discoveries. Note little things as well as big. Have you ever looked at that will? No? Well, I want to when I come again. My observations have been that about all such villainies in inanimate things used in their consumption sometimes give signs that, minute and slight as they are, if a man will study them closely, seem to point to lurking places which it is worth while to ferret. I knew Pearce Amerson—a rough man, and in old age made too inspiring by Wiley. But he was upright—at least he was always so regarded—and I have no idea that he meant to delude in saying he would die intestate. He believed that he had destroyed that will. How its destruction was prevented we've got to find out. If we do that, other things will follow. The court and the public are against disturbing such depositions, however capricious and unjust; but if we can show that at the time of the execution old Amerson's mind was laboring with unfounded prejudices against his son for marrying as he did, it will go hard if we can't at least divide the jury and afterwards drive Wile to some sort of compromise; and if we can show the manner of the spring of that influence, we'll bring an action of slander ancillary to other proceedings. In hunting such a rat as Amerson, we'll have to employ every artifice, trap, dead-fall, shotgun and bane. Eh, Dabney? Eh, my boy?"

"Well, that'll do for to-night. I feel like there are other things on my mind to say, but I'll wait till they get into clear shape. I'm tired. Come by after breakfast, and the morning and we'll have another chat before I start. Sunday, I know, but we are now engaged in getting out of the pit, not an ox nor an ass, but a widow and an orphan. Heilshol! the meaning is in this world! Still, I like to live in it, old as I'm getting and with all that I've seen in it."

After he had gone the next morning the young lawyer felt, and so assured his client, that the case was stronger than he had hoped.

CHAPTER XIV.

Mr. Flint had spoken in public of the will in such terms of blame that Amerson began to avoid him. Dabney, hearing of this, asked Rachel to request him to call at the office when he next came to town. So on the next Saturday, his day for coming in, while hoping his first today at the "Big Indian," Rachel said:

"Uncle Lishy, Squire Dabney was in here not long back and he asked me to tell you, the first time I see you, he wished you'd stop in his office, as he wants to have a little talk with you about a matter."

"Squire Dabney" said the customer, setting down his tumbler, which he was raising. "Why, what do he want along of me, you reckon, Gustie? I never had no business with him, exceptin' to get him to draw up a will for me, and I paid him for that like I always do for everything as I go up. Did he say what it was about?"

"No, sir, but I got the idee somehow it might be about the Amerson will. He never let on in them words, but somehow I gathered that idee."

"Pearce Amerson's will? Why, my Lord, I got nothin' to do 'long of Pearce Amerson's will, exceptin' I were one o' the witnesses, and I been sorry for that ever since I heard how ag'in Cullen it went, that were my favorite 'mong his two boys, and I told Wile so. But that's every blessed thing I had to do with it!"

"It mayn't be that, Uncle Lishy. As for that will, it's a shame it were ever made, and it'll be a pity if it ain't broke."

"Come, now, Gustus, come, 'now; I can't feller you fur as that. A man's will's his own. The law says that, and it won't let her be broke onliest they is mighty plain good reason for it. The law, they tell me, is very p'inted in such a case, which and it ought to be."

"That may be so, but s'pose the old man thought he done destroyed it after making it, and s'pose he were hindered from destroying it by somebody unbeknownst, which to my opinion that's so?"

"Ah, Gustus, but such as that have to be prove pine-blank. It's a troublesome case all round. Poor Cullen! but it ain't a shame of him now. Yet there's his widder and orphan child that is ceter rumther hard on them. I been a-hopin' they'd compromise it, but they ain't breakin' a will dry so, because it don't read accordin' to what people think they'd do if it was them and therein, I can't but be ag'in' seen as that. I got a will myself which some mayn't like when I'm gone, and the beginnin' of a example o' breakin' wills out and out, 'thout up and down good reason, I can't go to that extent myself. Well, I'll swallow the balance of my body and then go and see what Arthur Dabney want with me."

Repairing to the office and assigned a chair he took from his pocket a biscuit and said:

"Arthur—I call you Arthur because you was raised right there by me, and you've never talked or done like you feel like you got above your raisin'—"

"That's right, Mr. Flint. That's what I prefer you to call me."

"Jes' so; be it so, then. I were goin to say that Gustus Rachel told me you wanted to see me, and so I've come; and if you ain't a objection to it, I'll eat a biscuit, because I've jes' now took a toddy at Gustus' 'Big Injun,' as they call it, and she ain't g'in' to do me the good benefits I'm a-coun'in' on from her (thinks I) I got a little comin' at the top of her where she went, if you'll excuse me."

"Certainly, Mr. Flint; make yourself entirely at home. Thank you for coming. I only want to chat with you a little about old man Amerson's will. An unfortunate piece of business, wasn't it?"

"Very unfortunate, and a unexpected one I don't rec'lect."

"I had heard that you were much surprised and a good deal distressed by it. Indeed, so far as I can hear, everybody in Baldwin county is—except, of course, Wiley Amerson, who thinks he has everything in his sling, as they say."

"His father before him were an ambitious kind of man about the gittin' o' property and holdin' on to it. There's where Wiley got it. Now his mother were different, and Cullen he took arter her. A fine body, a uncommon fine boy! It weren't right; that is, to my opinion, which business it's none o' mine; but to me it don't appear right; but there it is, you see, Arthur. Now, that will you write me, one o' me sons ain't agoin' to like it when I'm out o' the way, but the law, you know, is ag'in' it."

"That's all perfectly true, Mr. Flint. Regarding your will, other people, whether John thinks so or not, will say it was right, and certainly there was no suspicion regarding it. In this case is very different. In this there has been fraud somewhere, and it is of utmost importance to find out what it was. I wanted to see you and ascertain what you might remember in your intercourse with Pearce Amerson to show that he had not such preference for Wiley over Cullen as he will indicate."

Mr. Flint stooped carefully, picked up a crumb, and going to a window, threw it out. Resuming his chair, he said, smiling:

"My old man frekvent gives me a scold about drappin' crumbs about; but as to that, I don't know as I know anything exceptin' what everybody know in our community. The old man Amerson were monstrous fond o' Cullen, seem like to me, till he got married to Harnah Enlow, when seem like soon arter that he got put out ag'in' him; but then, in no long time, about a year or sech a matter, I thought he had got reconciled to him, and even a-includin' of Harnah. I know he was monstrous proud when arter him; that's what make it all 'stonish me so. Why, sir, I've heard him up till not two month before he taken sick, of frekvent agoin' on about Harnah, what a fine, industrious wife she were to Cullen, and turnin' out so fur better than he ben a-expectin' of her. Some people had told him about her."

"Did he say what this was, and from whom he got it?"

"Well, I can't rec'lect exact; but somebody told him he had heard that Harnah were a kind o' frolicky, frisky, that didn't keer much fur—well, the upshot were, she weren't too good, and were finger of her fetchin' down the family, arter Wiley have lift it up, and so on, which I told him I would of told him all the time that Harnah were a perfect jewel of a girl myself, if her parents was in moderate circumstances. As for wherd he got his idee he had at the ofstah, why, I'll have to—well, the people in the settlement says, and my old man among 'em, they all says he never got 'em from nobody but Wile Amerson himself."

"No doubt about that, Mr. Flint. Mr. Amerson did not tell you what was in his will?"

"No, bless your soul, no; nor I never ast him."

"Did he ever say in your hearing that he had destroyed it, or that he meant to do so?"

"No, not as I member. He were not a man to talk about what he'd ben a-doin' and were a-meanin' to do, and I never ast him, it not bein' any o' my business."

"I was not in court when the will was proved. You were, I heard, and testified to the old gentleman's entire soundness of mind."
